Repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law.

A fault-finding journal in this State says Oregon cast no vote in Congress on the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law If that paper had been as anxious to defend a part of our present delegation as to find fault, it would have saved itself from an error The vote of Mr McBride is recorded in favor of the repeal —Oregon Statesman

We presume that the OREGONIAN in the Journal referred to, inasmuch as we stated that "the voice of Oregon was not heard pro or con in the disposition of this important question" We believe we were correct in the statement. We quoted the bill and the vote in full—the names of those who voted for the repeal those who voted against it, and those set down as "not voting" The report of that particular proceeding in Congress was copied into the DAILY OREGONIAN of July 26th from the letter of "Castine," Washington correspondent of the Sacramento Union Among the names in "Castine's" report of those not voting at all upon this important question were Senate—Harding and Nesmith, House—McBride We still believe our assertion correct, the fact thus capital making friends of Mr, McBride to the contrary notwithstanding One reason for believing our position the true one is, that upon so an important a matter, if the statement were false its denial would not have found the light in a half-dozen line squib with no particular responsibility attached to it. Mr McBride certainly owed it to himself, as to those through whose votes he gained the proud position of Representative to have published a denial of our statement over his own signature, backed by a quotation of the vote from some official paper in which he had been reported as voting in favor of the repeal This surreptitious introduction of coined una bentic statement in lieu of stubborn facts, often gives an undeserving men a degree of political prominence and sometimes—when the unthinking are in the majority—secures for him a political position to which a wide knowledge of the truths would never have elevated him. Whether the last remarks apply to the election of McBride depends upon himself

Our remark that "the voice of Oregon was not heard pro or con in the disposition of this important question," was not then based and is not now repeated upon any feeling of a personal character toward John R. McBride Its utterance is justified by a sincere devotion to the Union, and it was provoked by the conviction that no thorough, honest, Union man could take any middle ground upon so important a measure at such a critical period Mr McBride since his return—and he has had ample time—has not deigned an explanation to his constituency for his non-committal course upon this particular question. We learn that early last winter in Washington, he privately assented to the proposition involved in the bill, but subsequently, when the loyal States were marshaled into line to make the glorious record of their unfaltering courage in the cause of justice and liberty, he, on behalf of Oregon, shirked the responsibility, and the North-Western State stands equivocally mute upon the record , He has not denied that record as transmitted by Castine published by us, and we are informed sustained by the Congressional Globe, page 2,920 We are not disposed to be "fault finding," neither are we "anxious to defend a part of our present delegation" at the expense of personal and journalistic veracity Mr McBride was elected by the Union men of Oregon—not to exercise an individual judgment or responsibility, but to bind them and reflect their sentiments on every measure looking to a suppression of the rebellion and a restoration of the Union He knew that the Union sentiment—not of his State alone, but of the civilized world—fixed upon the institution of slavery as the prime cause of the rebellion, and the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law was unanimously regarded a necessary measure, looking toward the redemption of our country from future trouble by removing the cause We will gladly give Mr McBride the benefit of any property sustained denial But if he has been deceived into a belief that the political complexion of his constituents had changed, and that his vote for the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law would prove a bar to his further political advancement why does he not come out and acknowledge that his motto was—"John R. McBride first the Union afterwards"—and that upon such motto he declined to give his constituents a political and moral status upon the great issues of the day?

A DEMOCRATIC ARGUMENT —The Copperhead gold speculators in New York are trimming their sails to catch the ignorant in the toils of the late Peace Convention at Chicago On the 30th, gold was 232½, on the 31st, gold opened at 239, and closed at 225 A copperhead organ in this State cites the instance of gold going down as an evidence of the confidence of the "Wall street brokers" in the nomination In New York, on the 1st inst, the day after the nomination of McClellan was reported—gold was quoted at 242½@248 This rise in the face of some of the most cheering intelligence of the war—of brilliant successes to the arms of the Nation—is only an effort on the part of the Copperheads and traitors to rob the laboring classes and at the same time make the ignorant believe it the fault of Mr Lincoln's Administration If the same causes operate now as formerly to fix the prices of gold and government currency—namely, the prospects of the Union forces—gold would be at 125 and legal tenders at 80 cents Will some of our Oregon Copperhead papers tell us for what purpose the laboring classes are robbed of half their wages? Have they lost faith in McClellan, or is it the taking of Atlanta and the other victories of our brave troops so threatening to the cause of rebellion that they take this the last opportunity to get as many greenbacks as possible for their little pile of gold?

COPPERHEAD CONSISTENCY WITH THE REBELS We copy the following truthful remarks from the Shasta Courier

The complicity of the Copperhead with the rebels has been so apparent as to render it almost a work of supererogation to adduce any further testimony upon them Yet least there be some loth to believe that the party with professions of loyalty on the lips of its leaders has been playing into the hand of the traitors who have staked their all on the game of rebellion, we submit a few facts relative to the course of the party and a number of its prominent members, which will be remembered by those who have given attention to the events of the last three years Among the many things to substantiate this charge it has been evident by the indorsement and election to Congress of Fernando Wood, after that immaculate man had endeavored to effect a shipment of arms to the State of Georgia, in the interest of the rebellion It has been proven by the armed opposition of the adherents of that party in 1863, in the interior of Pennsylvania, to the draft and the protection afforded there to those guilty of desertion It was established by the bloody riots in the city of New York last year, also designed to defeat the draft and by the cruel murder of Union soldiers by those whom Governor Seymour claims as his friends It has been substantiated by the organization of the Councils of the Knights of the Golden Circle in the Northern and Western States managed and manipulated by prominent members of that party Further, it has been proven by their rally in defense of ex Senator Bright of Indiana, after the publication of his letter to Jeff Davis recommending a new and efficient weapon for adoption in the rebel army The charge is supported by the letters from J C Davis, ex Congressman and J R Eckle Circuit Judge of Voorhees district in Indiana, to J C Breckinridge introducing Oliver Rankin to the distinguished traitor and recommending him as a faithful and efficient ally The truth of it is shown by the speeches of Vallandigham which were well calculated to deter men from enlisting and to encourage desertion, and by the subsequent action of the party in electing him to the Chicago Convention thereby endorsing his acts It has time and again been made apparent by the gratitude of the traitors, evinced by the encomiums of the rebel press on the Copperhead friends, and by the unmistakable sympathy of the latter with the rebel cause, exhibited by their doleful countenances when the wires have given news of a rebel defeat and their jubilant faces when reverses overtake the armies of the Union Again it has been made manifest by their forgetfulness when in State Convention assembled, to exchange congratulations over the news that then arrived, that Vicksburg had fallen and finally though it is like Pelion on Ossa piled, it is confirmed by the recent discovery in the States north of the Ohio of the secret Order of the party, with Vallandigham as its Supreme Commander, having for one of its objects a North western Confederacy thus creating a division in favor of the enemy

Such are a few of the many proofs of their complicity in the rebellion and their sympathy with traitors, and such are a few of the many reasons why loyal men refuse to rally round their standard and shrink from their contamination

FROM SOUTHERN OREGON — The Jacksonville Sentinel furnishes the following items,

Never since white men trod the soil of Southern Oregon, has there been so much fire in the mountains as during the past few weeks From north of the Canyon to the Siskiyous the fire has been raging with increased fury Much of the sickness which prevails among us at the present, is attributed to the heated state of the atmosphere, and the immense volumes of smoke ever created by these vast fires

We had the pleasure of visiting the stirring little town of Canyonville last week We were surprised to find so much business transacting where there are so few houses. It contains two stores, two saloons, one hotel, one flouring mill, a California Stage Company station and a world of Union sentiment

New diggings bearing the euphonious name "Hole in the Ground" have been struck on one of the tributary gulches of Wolf Creek, about seven miles south of Oakville. It is said that they pay from one ounce to $20 to the hand So far as discovered there is ground sufficient to supply 40 or 50 men.

The fire in the mountains has driven the bears to the borders of the valley, where they are making themselves rather "at home" During this week they have made several raids on the slaughter yard, one half mile west of town, killing two hogs, and badly tearing others

The John Days and Rogue River Wagon Road Co has resumed work on the road. They have sent out several wagon loads of provisions and tools to be used on the road.

We learn that Superintendent Huntington has agreed to meet the Indians at Fort Klamath, on the 5th of October, to make a treaty.

ANOTHER NATION —The voracious telegraph proclaims the advent of a new republic, in the body politic of Jones county, which has lately seceded from the State of Mississippi, and issued a declaration of independence. With all our repugnance to the doctrine of secession, we are disposed to sympathize with Jones county We denounce as tyrannical any attempt to subjugate or coerce the sovereign people of Jones. "Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," and the claim by Government of powers not assented to by the governed is usurpation For a more full and elaborate presentation of this great argument, see the speeches of Vallandigham, Wood, Harris, Long, etc, and the Chicago Times, Cincinnati Enquirer, New York News etc The new nation of Jones should be able to congratulate itself that the Confederacy and Mississippi acknowledge the right of secession Nay, for this they are fighting We are told that the armies of the new republic met those of the Confederacy and defeated them May we not venture to say that Jones county can never be subdued —St Louis Democrat.

FIGHT WITH INDIANS —The Reese River Reveille of Aug 20th has the following in reference to an attack on immigrants by Indians

James Holland and Edward Holland and wife, from Kane county, Illinois, arrived in this city yesterday, and proceeded on to Reese River, where they will remain for some time From them we learn that about fifty miles this side of Fort Laramie they had serious trouble with the Sioux Indians. After having camped one evening, they were attacked by eight Indians, who succeeded in inflicting a severe and dangerous wound in the thigh of Clark Salvarino, of Elgin, Illinois, and stealing seventeen of the finest horses that have left the States this season for this coast, two of which cost in Illinois last Spring, one thousand dollars' After a spirited resistance by the little band, in which two Indians were killed and the third mortally wounded they beat a hasty retreat although there were thirty more Indians in reserve close by The immigrants were not molested any more by the savages Salvarino, was left at a ranch near by but they did not learn his fate

A FEARFUL FALL —The Virginia Enterprise of Aug 23d has the following

On last Sunday Fritz Dunning fell into a shaft some sixty feet in depth, situated in the tunnel of the Summit Tunnel and Mining Company on Cedar Hill, and had his leg badly crushed It appears that himself and a friend were walking in the tunnel with no other light than that of some matches which they were burning Not knowing of the shaft in the bottom of the tunnel Dunning stumbled into it His friend ran out and gave the alarm, when a rope was procured and a man lowered to bring the wounded man up When taken out life was almost extinct, as the air of the shaft was very bad Dunning was in the shaft for nearly an hour His thigh is so injured that he is unable to move his lower extremities He was taken to his residence at the corner of L street and Sutton avenue and, with proper care will probably recover in a few weeks

A RELIC —Mr William Logan of Dallas, is about to present to the Sanitary Fair, the tomahawk with which Doctor Whitman was murdered at Walla Walla, in 1847. The murderer of Dr Whitman, at the time he was hung gave the tomahawk to his brother who presented it to Stock Whitley as a token of his regard for him This Stock carried with him through the Indian war of 1855-'56 and had it with him at the time he was killed by the Snake Indians last May After the death of Stock Whitley, his family presented it to Donald Mckay, who gave it to Mr Logan As a memento of one of the most tragic scenes in the history of the North West coast this tomahawk will possess an interest for the visitors at the coming Fair

A SEVERE TEST IN KENTUCKY —Gen. Hubert Pasne now in command at Cairo and Paducah according to the accounts of the rebel sympathizers has instituted a "reign of terror" He requires everybody to be unconditional Union or to leave the Department and the obligation which so severely troubles them is to swear and prove that they are, always have been and always will be loyal to the Union Such a test is too much for a Copperhead

In San Francisco a mammoth cheese weighing 4 000 pounds, was rolled into the Mechanics Pavilion for exhibition at the Fair It was made in Monterey, especially for this purpose

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to September 3.

WASHINGTON Sept 3—Official dispatches last night state that the enemy are moving down the Valley falling back towards Winchester

Averill drove Vaughn's cavalry from the North of Bunker Hill to within 6 miles of Winchester where his advance was stopped by a division of infantry Averill captured two wagons two battle flags and a number of prisoners and cattle He then moved toward Berryville and Sheridan moved last night with his whole army in pursuit of the enemy

The latest news from the Army of the Potomac states that nothing of note has transpired for several days

CHICAGO Sept 5—The Nashville dispatches of the 1st and 2d inst say that Wheeler was making demonstrations on the railroad between Murfreesboro and Nashville and had been attacked by Gen Rousseau Rousseau telegraphed to Nashville on the afternoon of the 2d that he had met the enemy miles north of Lavergne On the afternoon of the 2d the skirmishing was lively and continuous We were driving the enemy slowly towards Lavergne There is some excitement in Nashville but the information contained in the dispatch does not warrant it The number of rebels is not stated but it is believed that the demonstration will not effect anything

NEW YORK Sept —The Herald editorially endorses the Chicago Platform and advises McClellan to kick to pieces

WASHINGTON, Sept 3—The Secretary of War announces that the Naval and other credits of men will amount to 200 000 reducing the number of men required under the recent call to 300,000 He says 100 000 men promptly furnished is all that Grant asks for in the field to capture Lynchburg The Residue will be adequate to garrison forts and guard the lines of communication

WASHINGTON Sept 4—The Navy Department dispatches announces the burning of the United States frigate Brandywine—stores &c up—at Norfolk with all her stores No particulars

The following telegram from Grant has been received

CITY POINT, Sept 1—I have Richmond papers to day which contain rumors of a battle at Atlanta and say the War Department has no official information and I dare not form an opinion from rumors I have no doubt however that Sherman had gained greater success before the dispatch of last night was received than during the occupation of Atlanta The fact was known to our pickets the rebels told our men that Sheridan had whipped Hood who lost 40,000 men, and that our troops were in Atlanta All is quiet here (Signed) GRANT

Our southwestern telegraph line continues down This with heavy storms in sound Tonesville may damage our lines so as to hinder the arrival of the details from Atlanta a few days

(Signed) STANTON

The New York Herald's correspondent with Sheridan on the 1st says of Wednesday's fight, near Martinsburg We attacked the enemy's outpost to make him show his hand which he did Then we deployed in line of battle Heavy skirmishing ensued the enemy pushing forward a heavy column our forces gradually giving ground They made several efforts to flank us, but failed We drew the rebels three miles from Martinsburg when there was a halt. Our falling back in accordance with Sheridan's orders

BUNKER HILL Sept 2—Averill's division of cavalry attacked the enemy this morning a short distance south of Martinsburg, rapidly following them up capturing two battle flags many prisoners nearly one train of wagons a herd of cattle and by 4 o'clock P M, came upon a division of rebel infantry and engaged it We are within 6 miles of Winchester and the engagement not ended

Private dispatches quote gold on Saturday from 239 to 240

From Washington Territory.

OLYMPIA, Sept 5—The capital of Washington Territory was yesterday united to the rest of mankind by telegraph The last stretch of the wire was put up to the general rejoicing of the people

A rumor is current here that the steamer Cascades, intended for an opposition boat on the Columbia river, is ashore, 40 miles south of Cape Flattery The rumor comes from Indians who say an express was sent to Port Angeles for the revenue cutter Shubrael to relieve the steamer We were unable to learn anything more than the mere rumor The weather is cool and cloudy with an indication of rain

The Couch met the steamer Cascades five miles above Monticello this afternoon

GRANT AND MCCLELLAN —From the New Gospel of Peace, Book Third, Chapter VII says the Placerville News, we take the following

54 And Ulysses, after he had threatened to take the chief city of the Ephephyces from the north side thereof marched suddenly to the river called Djeems, and attacked the city upon the south side

55 Then said all the men who would have had Litulmak the Unready chief ruler, Lo, Ulysses doeth that which Litulmak hath done before him (For Litulmak had also marched to the Djeemz with Robbutluch hard after him) And they glorified the wisdom of Litulmak

56 And it was told unto Abraham that the Kouvutites and the Kopuiheddi said thus And Abraham answered and said They speak truly, for Litulmak and Ulysses did go from the north side of the city of the Ephephyces unto the river Djeemz And this reminds me of another little parable

57 Two men entered into an house, but they entered it not together And both of these men went out of that house, but they also went not out together

58 And the first was thrust out by the neck and shoulders and was beaten until he was half dead But the last went out because he would go and they that were in the house were not able either to stay him or to follow him

59 Judge ye now, therefore, which of these men was like unto Litulmak and which was like unto Ulysses

A DUEL BETWEEN PICKETS —Correspondence of the Atlanta, Ga., Appeal dated "On the Left, July 16th, 1864" says

Everything has been quiet along our lines since I last wrote you with the exception of the usual amount of shelling and skirmishing and an attempt to make a raid on the Atlanta and West Point Railroad In fact, the shelling and skirmishing has been unusually light I don't think I have heard half a dozen cannon per day, and the skirmishing or picket firing has only lasted a short portion of each day, and has been very slow A day or two ago however, while this sort of pastime was going on along Stevenson's front, a Confederate picket challenged a Yankee to come out in open ground and fight a duel across the river until one or the other fell The Yankee accepted the challenge, they both stepped out, and the duel commenced at a distance of five or six hundred yards and it is no compliment to the skill of either as a marksman, that they fired at each other for fifteen or twenty times, till finally the Confederate fell with a bullet through his forehead

Fremont's paper, the New Nation is already getting uneasy in its Democratic fellowship Referring to its associate Administration hater, the World the Nation says

The World has its hobby—the Constitution Talk to it of slavery liberty the rights of man social rights, national dignity, stocks gold habeas corpus, Seymour Dix, Kearsarge Semmes' tenant McClellan's raids Lee, rain or shine, China or Cochin China and it will always reply 'Constitution' Constitution' Constitution!' 'Loyalty will be the ruin of us' said a French minister 'The Constitution will be the death of us,' might an American minister exclaim

It is Constitution all over California If some patent medicine man would invent a panacea to cure Copperheads of the Constitution, his fortune would be made They have it bad —Appeal

A MODEL MARRIAGE —The Westfield (Mass) Republican tells of a sensible marriage which occurred near that village, as follows

An honest hard working farmer who resides south of this village, and who had got along well in years without any of the endearment of a family of which it was once come to a rather sudden conviction that it was not good for man to be alone and started out in pursuit of a wife and the object of his affections at work in a hay field took her into his wagon, and proceeded at once to a Justice of the Peace and they two were made one and the practical wife took her place in the hay field with her husband for better, they will not think of wasting their time in court the Fall or any other out of the way place

GENERAL MCPHERSON —General McPherson who was killed near Atlanta was engaged to be married to a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Baltimore The dispatch announcing his death has sent a pall into the hearts of a circle of friends to see well without her glasses passed it to the daughter engaged to the lamented hero Seeing at records had death she instantly fainted The scene was peculiarly heart rending

BOILS.

WE READ THAT ONE OF the worst afflictions that the patient Job was called upon to bear was that of boils, and there have been those to be, from that time to the present, the most troublesome and painful of diseases We have known instances where individuals were sure to have their eruptions break out upon them once a month at least They show an imperfect state of the blood and that there is some kind of humor lurking there, and that an overplus of corruption is actually thrown to the surface of the body, making its appearance in the form of boils. Now, it is not best at once to purify the system? Do you ask what will do this? We answer Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup. It is curing hundreds in every town, and there is not a State in the Union where it has not accomplished the most astonishing cures REDINGTON & CO Agents 416 and 418 Front Street, San Francisco

AN IMPORTANT SUBJECT —At the risk of being charged with forever harping upon the same string we again recur to the question of opening up the channel of the Willamette river, so that steamers and vessels of every character can reach Portland in any and all stages of water It requires no argument to show that the subject is one of the greatest importance, and there is not a man in the city who owns a house, or a lot, or who does any business whatever, that should not interest himself in the matter Were our circumstances different, and the question forever settled of our importance as a commercial city then we should believe ourself engaged in a work of sheer folly trying to convince our people of truth of the statement that something must be done But we are not so fortunate, and the claims are still urged We believe a subscription paper was circulated a few days since, and a small sum of money subscribed towards the removal of the snags that were deposited in the river two years ago now completely damming it up, but the matter has apparently subsided There is no responsible head to the work—and we insist that a public meeting shall be called of the citizens—a committee appointed—and some scheme for the consummation of the object carried out How much chance there may be for some other point to affect the growth of Portland, we do not pretend to know, but if the owners of real property in this city will consult their own interests as sagaciously as business men are supposed to do we do not believe a few snags will long furnish ill wishers of our success with capital upon which to operate against our prosperity An obstruction of such a serious character and yet capable of being so easily removed, ought not long to be permitted to exist as a drawback to any city but a helpless Portland It can be blasted out and it has been demonstrated at New Orleans quite recently, that such obstructions cannot only be removed in that manner, but it deepens the channel A channel which had been so obstructed and rendered difficult and dangerous for supply ships, by the explosion of three or four torpedos, such as were prepared for the work here last week, accomplished the task in the Mississippi and instead of the seven or eight feet of water after the operation, there was seventeen feet One torpedo was lowered down to a tree about ninety feet long by four feet in diameter, which lays across the channel of this river, on Friday last, and it was blown up so as to show its dimensions—and sank again There the work seems to be ended Now, it is not a matter for one man or for one company of men, but every man in the city is interested in it and we want to see them move in the matter The snags must be removed

MINERAL COLLECTIONS FOR THE STATE SANITARY FAIR.—Hon Samuel Colt, member elect to the State Legislature from Baker county, was in this city yesterday, stopping at the Western Hotel, on his way to the Capital. Mr Colt brings with him attestable proofs of the loyalty of his constituency, and at the same time the most curious and richest collection of placer and quartz specimens we ever remember having seen which are contributed to the State Sanitary Fair by the residents and miners of Humboldt Basin The individual contributions comprise forty specimens amounting in real value to about $465 The collection is headed by some magnificent specimens of crystalized quartz nearly covered with pure gold resembling leaf, in some respects and in a money sense being given by Mr Colt and two

These specimens are from a "pocket" lately discovered about two months since on the divide between Auburn River and the Malheur, thirty miles from Auburn Its richness we are unable to state, but its appearance we know to be far ahead of anything of the kind we have ever before seen A more prominent of the placer specimens are also worthy of special comment, but to go through the catalogue, and make mention of each would absorb too much time, besides we think they would have to be seen to be appreciated They come from a new region, unmistakably, and in the future Humboldt Basin will be well known among all outside that set on for producing big chunks of gold, having loyal men to take them out. The collection will be turned over to a committee of ladies to whom upon the arrival there of Mr Colt

DEATH OF A BEAR —As the steamer Hassalo was on her route to the Cascades yesterday, a bear was discovered swimming in the river about three miles above Cape Horn, when Purser Bay was informed of the fact, and a small boat was manned and chase was given It proved to be a Bear and after the beast had been watched with a few well directed shots from a double barrel derringer he was taken on board and killed It was a monster of the black species and did not weigh much less than four hundred pounds gross He was swimming from the Oregon side of the Columbia to the Washington side, and had arrived mid stream when shot The first fire was fine shot, the second and third shots of a Derringer one of which took effect in the jaw, coming out at the eye.

ARRIVAL OF THE CASCADES —The new steamer Cascades Capt. Tom Wright, arrived at Couch's wharf in this city, from Utsalady, W T, at 9 o clock this morning She cleared from Port Townsend on the day the 27th ult, was detained five days at Utsalady as a result a consequence of storms The Cascades is an unfinished state and has on board two steamers for the upper Columbia river, besides the number for her joiner work which will be discharged to-day and then she will proceed to the Cascades to discharge the boats In all her freight is about 300 tons. She is said to have stood the trip remarkably well, and appears to be a very large substantial craft stern wheel

A CRASH —The Turn Verein Association have for some days past had men at work in the removal of their Hall from its old position on Second street, corner of B, to the newly selected site on First street between Oak and Pine but the work was put to an abrupt check yesterday, at the junction of two posts by the sliding off of the entire roof. The building is one of the most substantial in the city, but it appears the roofing was merely catched on to the main beams, and supported in a flimsy manner Fortunately no one was hurt in the crash, and it is thought the building may be repaired without much cost

VARIETY —Variety is the spice of life, and life is most certainly prolonged by a visit to see Hussey's Variety There is just enough of the comic to keep on in good humor, enough of the sentimental to be meditative, and enough to excite wonder and admiration Billy Sheppard, in his bahjo Solo, and Mrs Morgan in her female champion jig, more than repay the price of admission The house was very well filled last evening They play again to night

U S CIRCUIT COURT —In United States Circuit Court yesterday, Judge M P Deady presiding the case of the United States vs Edward Tichnor, for the recovery of timber, was dismissed on motion of the District Attorney The case of Otto Frankfurter A J Dufer, was dismissed in consequence of being settled. Hon Lansing Stout was admitted to practice in United States Circuit Court, and the Court adjourned to meet on the first Monday in December

FIVE DOLLARS REWARD —We will give the above reward for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who took from the doors of the Postoffice and Express office in this city, on Monday morning the 23d of August the packages of OREGONIANS, done up for carrying to various sections of the interior

INFRINGEMENT ON VESTED RIGHTS —It is often amusing to witness the swarm of hucksters that crowd about a farmer's wagon as soon as it appears on the streets of the city from the country It is an annoyance to the farmer and very often an infringement on the vested rights of the merchant whose licenses are disregarded by privileged runners

AFFRAY ON THE DOCK —An affray occurred on Couch's wharf yesterday between two old sailors who took that means in hands to settle a difficulty of long standing During the melee a pistol was fired once, but did not take effect. One of the combatants was severely bruised

RECORDER'S COURT —There are several cases appearing on the docket for Recorder McCoy's attention this morning One case was disposed of by commitment for drunkenness for two days yesterday the defendant failing to come out with his fine

SAILED —The steamer Julia left Couch's wharf at 9 o clock yesterday morning in connection with the Belle Taylor at the mouth of the Willamette for Victoria and San Francisco The Julia carries 501 tons 83 hundredths and the Belle 130 tons of freight from Portland

COUNTY COURT —The County Court commenced its session for the September term yesterday A jury was summoned and by noon will be down with this morning's business The business is principally of a routine nature

TOUCH OF THE MINT —We were favored with several light showers yesterday much in resemblance of the celebrated Oregon mist The pleasant weather has not subsided yet however we will have many sunny days before the evening time

PERSONAL —Governor Gibbs will leave for the Capital to day to arrange matters for the coming session of the legislature He will remain at the Capital until the close of the session

Shot in the War—A Tale of Loyalty versus Love

I was a school teacher, he was a clerk There was nothing to hinder us from being married, so the day was fixed An early day, a short engagement, only two months to wait. You may think that I was unmaidenly to consent to be wooed and won in so short a time, but then I was tired tired of teaching all day and sewing all the evening, tired of being alone in the world and belonging to nobody, tired of having the responsibility of my own life and soul to bear all alone. God took away my father and mother, and when He brought me in their stead a noble, loving husband, was it my place to turn away and say, "Wait for a few years, let us both be unhappy a while longer, and then I will accept this compensation?" No, when John Richings said to me, "Eleanor, I love you, will you be my wife?" I said "yes," and was thankful. When he pleaded for an early marriage, saying that I needed some one to take care of me, I felt that it was true

When he asked me what was the shortest possible time in which I could be ready, I told him two months. In two weeks my quarter at school would be up, and then I would have three weeks to get ready in A short time, yes, but then when one is poor and has no friends, there is not so much to get ready, at least I found it so So when he asked me, I told him two months, I had to tell the truth, you know. All this happened in the spring time.

Three weeks had already passed away, and I stood at the window watching for John. He was late that night The tall clock on the stairway had struck eight some time before he came up the steps. He looked tired and sad; I wondered why, for he had just been promoted at the store to the place of a man who had gone to the war. I felt happy for him, and wanted him to feel happy for himself, but he did not The conversation lagged, and soon, after a few moments of silence, he rose, and pacing the room said, "Nellie, they want more men for the army"

"Do they?" I answered dreamily.

"Yes, and Nellie, my little wife, I think I ought to go."

"You!"

"Yes; it's hard I know, harder for you than for me, but it is for our country, Nellie, besides it is God's work, and it don't seem right to shrink it."

"Our country?" I repeated confusedly, "what is it, John, but a big patch of pink on the map of North America?"

"O Nellie, our country is the grandest, noblest nation on God's blessed earth. It is man's last hope in the success of self-government; if it fails because we are untrue, then fails the world's great hope of freedom"

"But what of that, John? There are plenty of other men to go. Indeed, I cannot spare you; you are everything to me. I cannot live without you, indeed I cannot."

"Poor Nellie, poor child," said he, caressingly, "have not other men hearts that love them?"

"They have no one to love them as I love you. I have no one else, and then if you should be shot."

"God forbid! then what would become of you? Hard work will kill you, poor darling, and I could not bear to think of your marrying any one else."

"O, John, just as we were going to be so happy, I never was happy before in my life, must we give it up?" and I laid my head down on his shoulder and cried.

"I don't know," said he in a troubled tone. "I would have to go as a private, and my pay would not keep us both; I should lose my situation just as I am getting along nicely. If I could bear your share of the sorrow, too, I would go, but it don't seem right to leave you here alone."

"Can't we work for the soldiers at home, John? Some will have to stay at home; all cannot go to the war. Other men will go, you stay at home with me, and we will both work for the soldiers."

He answered wearily, "Perhaps you are right, I hope so, but let us think no more about, it I will stay for the present"

So the matter was settled. You blame us! Ah, well, perhaps we were selfish; but we were young, we were orphans, and had both struggled on through life alone, this was our first draught of happiness, and its taste was too sweet for us to put it aside for the bitter cup of sacrifice, but never mind, we have drank them both now, we have suffered for our fault, God has forgiven us, so you must.

The remaining time passed rapidly away, our wedding day came, and we were married. In all those five weeks that intervened never had John once mentioned the war, and never had I done it, for we both felt that it was an unwelcome subject. We did not speak of it, but there it lay in our pathway. We might close our eyes and turn aside if we would, but it was there still stretching forth its fleshless arms in a dumb appeal for vengeance, we paid the debt at last, and it has gone.

We went to room-keeping and tried to be happy. John received a high salary, and many wondered that we did not rent a whole house; but I made no remark when in account of expenditures there was a large amount placed opposite the word "soldiers," we were paying our part of the price, you know, but our mistake was this there was no life laid upon our altar of sacrifice, like Cain, we brought the fruit of the ground, but God was not satisfied, and we felt it; there was no lamb for the burnt offering Yet it was the happiest part of our lives, although the shadow never lifted from our hearts. We read of the soldiers, worked for the soldiers, and prayed for the soldiers. In those eighteen months I learned to love my country and feel interested in the war, but still I could not give up my husband.

At last when our baby was two months old the draft took place. When John came home from the store that evening I had no need to ask for the paper, for I read the news in his face; and yet I read over the list of the drafted men with unwonted interest, yes, there it was, John Richings, and I could not blot it out. We could not pay the exemption fee, for we had only one hundred dollars in the world; so John prepared to go We moved away into a narrow room in a smaller house, baby and I, and bought a sewing machine, for now I must work for the army for pay, and so I made shirts at seventy-five cents a dozen. John was at home three weeks for part of the time each day, until we were all fixed, and then he went away.

He went away. A short sentence, is it not? But there are many short words and sentences that have very long and hard meanings. God help those that have to study them out.

We lived on — , comfortably, the baby and I, for two months, and then I began to sicken. The machine working was too tiresome for me, and very soon one morning I lay still in my bed and did not attempt to rise. Mrs Green who lived down stairs, came into the room, but I felt too feeble to speak, so she thinking that I was very sick, took the baby down stairs and sent for the doctor.

I lay there quiet until the doctor came, he looked very grave and said something about "failing rapidly." He asked Mrs Green where my husband was She told him in the army, and he bade her telegraph to him immediately. Telegraph to a conscript! thought I to myself silently they will not give a conscript a furlough, and yet I let them do it, with the wild, vain hope that he would come before I died I felt no better all day and that night my baby died I heard the confusion down stairs, but never suspected its cause Poor child, he was taken with convulsions late in the afternoon, and died in the evening, and I never knew it until the next day.

I was roused the next morning by the doctor coming into the room "How does she seem to feel about the child's death?"

"Poor thing," answered Mrs Green, "she does not know anything about it, but I guess she will take it hard!"

"I guess she would have felt worse to have died and left it here alone. I pity her husband, to lose them both so suddenly"

Then they came up to my bedside I looked up in the doctor's face and asked, 'Doctor is my baby dead?"

"Yes"

That was all that was said I lay still again, feeling, oh, so tired and weak The doctor did not feel satisfied, and went away looking very serious That afternoon Mrs Green brought my baby up to me, I kissed it good by Then they put it into the little coffin and carried it away I could not feel sad, for I felt it was safe with God

I grew better and better, I waited for news from my husband, for, I said, he will write if he cannot come At last the news came I was reading the paper one morning when my eyes fell upon this paragraph

SHOT.—A conscript named John Rubings was shot while trying to make his escape from Camp , on the night of Wednesday,—November — He had asked for a furlough to go home to his wife, who was dying, it being refused, he tried to run the lines but failed He was shot down by the pickets and killed instantly We hope this will be a warning to others

It was all very well for Curtius to leap into the gulf amidst the shouts of an admiring multitude, knowing that he would safely alight on the pinnacle of glory, that rears its head aloft even from the shadow of death But for a man, all alone, in the dark, to stumble headlong into the gulf of infamy, is hard. Feeling that his foot has once slipped from the path of duty, as he reels over the precipice—God strengthen his faith lest it waver and die. All that the world will know of him will be that he was a conscript and a deserter, and yet he paid part of the price, you cannot deny that, for was, he shot down as a warning to others?

I went down to Washington and begged his body, they gave it to me at last, and I brought it home and laid it by my baby, and over the grave I placed a stone whereon was written —

"Shot in the war—
To pay part of the price"

I did not put my name there, you know why, for now when people pass his grave, they say, "Poor fellow! God bless him!" and God hears every prayer, you know What would they say if the name was there? Never mind now.

And I live on still and make shirts for the army. It is poor pay and hard work, the sooner done, and then the sooner I will be asleep. R A P

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation it remained almost useless, until Dr Henry Anders a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

without a solvent This considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr J R Chilton of this city, and Dr J Booth, U S Mint, Philadelphia The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly" July 6, 1856, page 76)

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc
